TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 10.

CAPT. HUDSON'S LILLIPUTIAN VESSEL.-The small three-masted ship, the Red, White, and Bluo, in which Capt. Hudson proposes to venture over the Atlantic in a few days, made her trial trip yesterday from the foot of Pike street to Staten Island, and thence to the Battery. The miniature vessel is but twenty-four feet long, and five feet six inches wide, and the main part is framed out of an Ingersoll life-boat, which makes it fire-proof, water-proof, and worm-proof. It has been as-certained that when filled with water, three ions more of weight would be required to sink her. The vessel carries three full masts, the main being nineteen feet, the fore eighteen feet, and the mizzen fifteen feet high, besides on each mast are rigged a course, main top-sail main topgallant, and main royal toge-ther with fore lower studding sail, and forsail topma-t studding sail, in all, though so many, but sixty-five yards of canvas in gross. She draws twenty inches of water aft and eighteen forward. On her trip the Red, White, and Blue behaved splendidly, making five knots against, and at times ten knots with the tide, and distanced several sloops, one three-masted schoener, and a crack yacht.

The captain, John Hudson, and his associate, Mr. Fitch, express the utmost confidence of the ability to cross the ocean within forty days, and have stocked her with full provisions, equipments, and one thousand seven hundred pounds of ballast, intending to start within a

The Red, White, and Blue has already been entered for the Paris Exposition next year, and, if she gets safely across, will remain on the other side until after that grand event .-N. Y. World.
